

Plymouth Elementary School
WEEK IN REVIEW
(Just a few highlights)
April 12-16

PES's answer to "What did you do in school today?"

The students have contributed, once again, to our weekly newsletter:

From Emily:

In art class we are making a colorful mod podge sunset for our paper birch trees. For the sunset we can use warm or cool colors. I am almost done with mine. Mod podge is glue mixed with some water. I am using cool colors for my sunset. I still need to paint my trees and then glue them on to my paper. After that I will be done with that project!

From Tim:

In Ms. Sara's independent morning work time, we write poems. We learned about clerihew poems. These poems are humorous. They have four lines. Line one ends with a person's name. Line two rhymes with line one. Lines three and four rhyme with each other. Here is an example I wrote:

Down in a spacecraft comes a boy named Anikan.
Sometimes he plays or does some shenanigans.
Some people call him Kevin.
Even though he's eleven.

From Austin:

Here at Plymouth School we are doing some patriotic songs for our concert. We will do our National Anthem at the concert. We are so happy that we get a music teacher named Mr. Branton to teach us patriotic songs for you to listen to and enjoy.

(Concert-May 26, 6:00 p.m. ☺)
